Programme overview

Four focused lessons in enquiry clarification, search design, source evaluation and a fictional reference capstone. Not an exhaustive literature-review service, degree or professional certification. Four self-paced written English lessons in two modules, with original fictional examples, explained practice and a self-assessed capstone. Optional automated Course Tutor assistance is available in the protected LMS. Readings are AI-authored with independent AI editorial and primary-source checks; independent human academic review is not included. Independent ZELVU study support within the listed scope. No university degree, recognised diploma, official examination, vendor accreditation, recruitment eligibility, job placement or outcome guarantee is included. Live human teaching, individual human marking and a recorded video lecture series are not included. Software hosting, paid subscriptions, proprietary classification schedules and standards, examination fees and university fees are separate. Practical exercises use supplied fictional data and offline planning alternatives; a hosted Koha or DSpace system is not provided. Suggested study hours include reading, practice and revision, not video runtime. Related existing degree/NET support courses remain separately sold; review their syllabus before purchase.

Who this is for

1. Basic web searching and ability to read short source summaries.
2. Use fictional practice records and resources you are entitled to use. Check your university, employer or examination authority for any separate qualification and selection requirements.

Published topics and learning focus

1. Turn a request into an answerable information need
2. Build and test a search strategy
3. Evaluate sources and write a bounded reference answer
4. Resolve a reference enquiry with an evidence trail
